iPaintMySpace... You can now virtually paint any space with one touch of a finger!

Think you've seen an app that can do this kind of thing before? Well – you haven't.

The purpose of the iPaintMySpace app is to have a logical and user friendly process where you can walk into a property, take a photo of a space, then use a brand name colour palate to repaint it. With basic tools and easy functionality, you can simply visualise how the space will look.

After testing all options on the market at the moment, it was obvious that the idea had been over-complicated and ineffective. So the main aim of the iPaintMySpace app will be assuring that end result is top quality – and the experience is user friendly.

ABOUT THE CREATOR, CARMEL SLOANE:

I have over 10 years' experience in the painting & decorating industry – and began with a dream to help my clients better visualise changes in their spaces. Now, as a small business owner, I have realised the potential to partner with my major suppliers and work together in the industry. I want my success to be yours – and for you to enjoy & use my product! I guarantee nobody comes close to the professionalism & accuracy I've built in to this App.... And I challenge you to find a better competitor in the app market!

ABOUT THE DEVELOPER, JOSH WILSON:

Josh Wilson has been developing innovative apps for just over 4 years. His reputation has quickly risen after two of his apps appeared in the top 10 over the past 2 years. Having completed many successful projects for various household names, he loves a good challenge. When approached by Carmel to develop this very exciting and ground breaking App, he jumped on it. Josh believes this will be an app that will change the way interior designers, home decorators and even weekend warriors go about their projects. With even more development ideas in the pipeline, this app is going to become a must have for renovators.
